The Iconic Christmas Episode: How Lily Stole Christmas

The very first dedicated How I Met Your Mother Christmas episode premiered in season 2, titled “How Lily Stole Christmas.” This episode remains a fan favorite for a reason. It perfectly captures the tension between treasuring the holidays and dealing with people who don’t share your enthusiasm.

The plot revolves around Ted dating a woman named Natalie (played by Anne Dudek) who openly admits she hates Christmas. Ted, ever the romantic, tries to change her mind by bringing her to the gang’s annual Christmas party. Predictably, disaster strikes. Meanwhile, Lily—whose love for the holiday is practically religious—discovers that Ted once called her a “grinch” behind her back, and she goes full-on revenge mode. The episode is a masterclass in sitcom storytelling, blending slapstick with genuine heart.

Key Themes in “How Lily Stole Christmas”

- The clash of holiday traditions: Ted’s desire for a perfect Christmas romance collides with Natalie’s aversion to the season.

The episode cleverly uses the holiday backdrop to magnify each character’s hopes and fears—whether it’s about starting a family, committing to a relationship, or just surviving another awkward social gathering.

Why “False Positive” Resonates
